

This week, we are entering a competition to have your work appear in JK Rowling's new book called The Ickabog! The winner of the competition will have their illustrations appear in Rowling's book. You would also receive a signed copy of the book and win £500 worth of book vouchers for our school! Today, we are going to begin by reading chapter 1 which is what you'll need to focus your illustrations around. Each day, there will be an English task to complete, then you can start your illustrations. Some of the illustrations that have already been submitted are extremely good, so you need to really take your time with the artwork. Your parents can see some of the entries on the Ickabog Twitter page #TheIckabog. Make sure your work links to a paragraph in the first chapter - there are some very good descriptions in it to help you. Your final illustrations need to be uploaded to Showbie at the end of this week - DO NOT RUSH THIS TASK! Now, read the first chapter and start to decide which part you could create a fantastic illustration for. Keep your artwork safe because if you win, the publishers will want your original work. <https://www.theickabog.com/king-fred-the-fearless/>
